

GENDER PAY GAP REPORT 2025

Our Findings and Figures

What is the Gender Pay Gap?

The gender pay gap is the difference in the average hourly pay of men and women across an organisation, expressed as a percentage of average male earnings. It compares the pay of all men and all women and not just those in the same jobs, with the same working patterns or the same competencies, qualifications or experience.

The gender pay gap is different to equal pay. Equal pay compares the pay of people doing the same work. The gender pay gap captures whether females and males are represented equally across the different levels of an organisation.

Why are we reporting?

The Gender Pay Gap Information Act 2021 requires all organisations with over 50 employees to report on their hourly gender pay gap across a range of metrics.

What is our snapshot date?

The snapshot date chosen was 29th June 2025 which means we reviewed the pay data from the previous 12 months, 1st July 2024 - 29th June 2025. Data was sourced from our payroll system and calculations were based on regulatory guidelines found here.

Findings & Action Plan

Gender Pay Gap

Our Mean Gender Pay Gap is 3.39%. According to research carried out by Deloitte in 2024, the mean national gender pay gap was 11.1% Our Mean Gender Pay Gap is largely attributable to our organisation shape. 58% of our workforce are males. There is over representation of male managers in the upper quartile and with more females in administrative positions. It is also worth noting that there are significantly more male chefs than female chefs, a large proportion of which are represented in the upper quartile. Nationally, almost 70% of chefs in Ireland are men.

The median hourly pay gap (0%) shows that male and female employees performing similar work typically earn comparable rates

Mean Bonus Pay Gap

Our mean bonus pay gap is -45.59%. This is largely as a result of productivity bonuses attached to positions and departments that are overrepresented by females.
